

Your Guide to Honors Recognitions

Perimeter Honors College students are encouraged to work toward a special honors recognition that awards their mastery of the honors curriculum. These recognitions are recorded on transcripts, recognized at graduation, and are a valuable addition to a resume.

Honors Scholar

Students who wish to be recognized as an Honors Scholar must complete 12 hours of Honors credit at the 1000 and 2000 level while maintaining a 3.3 overall GPA.

Honors Research Scholar

Students who wish to be recognized as an Honors Research Scholar would complete all of the requirements for the Honors Scholar recognition and need to complete one of the following research activities:

1. Present at the Georgia State Undergraduate Research Conference (GSURC).
2. Submit a manuscript to DISCOVERY, the Honors College Research Journal.
3. Present at a professional or student-oriented research conference.
4. Participate in a UAP program and submit a letter of support from the faculty advisor attesting to the scholarly, creative work or traditional research.
5. Participate in the LSAMP Scholars Program's Summer Bridge Program.

*Participation in a study abroad experience can count for 3 hours toward the 12-hour honors requirement, unless it is an honors abroad experience.
